

In this chapter I summarize what I see as the basic philosophical problems of the recent conceptual framework of biology and neuroscience and discuss how TGD can resolve these problems. One cannot actually avoid the problems of fundamental physics and of consciousness theory so that also these are discussed to some degree. Also concrete mechanisms are discussed with aim to give an overall view about TGD inspired quantum biology.